

Pre AP English II Summer Reading

The Advanced Placement English class on the tenth grade level is the second step in the students' formal preparation for the AP exams to be taken their junior and senior years for college credit. Students will continue to prepare for this test and for college course work. It is imperative that students understand that English II Pre-AP requires their best and most dedicated efforts in course work that is considered quite rigorous. Even though students will be asked to read college level texts, they will receive the instructional support equivalent to that of a senior Honors English course.

This year, we ask that you purchase a copy of the novel we will begin working with during the first six weeks of class - Station Eleven by Emily St. John Mandel. This text will be our focus in class at the beginning of the year and much of the instruction will revolve around it. You are, of course, welcome to read the entire novel over the summer but you are only required to read the first 50 pages by the first day of class.

We look forward to seeing you next year. Have a wonderful summer!
