Teacher's Corner

Our fourth graders have been busy this year! We started out the school year reviewing place value and its importance in all things math - a digit's place in a number determines its value. In fourth grade, students learn two new place values--tenths and hundredths. Next week, students will use area models and arrays to practice multiplying a 2-digit number by a 2-digit number. This is a new skill for fourth graders. Please practice at home with your child. Use a deck of cards or roll dice to create numbers, and then practice multiplying them together. Next week also begins MAPS testing for our 4th graders. Make sure they get plenty of rest.
