CAMPA Charter School Brings the High School Curricula to Middle School

We Love Good Stories

We all love good stories. Stories that inspire us; stories that allow us to dream beyond anything we have thought was possible before. This is such a story-- A story of audacity. The audacity of educators who believe the only difference between any one individual and the next is opportunity. In this case, it is the opportunity to be exposed to an education: a discipline and rigor that once was reserved for our nation's elite. This is a story of how one school with a small, dedicated team the audacity has to say: we can produce those future leaders too; nonetheless in urban neighborhoods with distractions and issues that provides neither the time nor resources to make this dream automatic.

"Hard work generates unlimited options," is not a mere saying of Collegiate Academy for Mathematics and Personal Awareness (CAMPA), but the driving force that propels this East New York, Brooklyn school to greatness. We take students who have less to begin with and give them more of everything we believe makes a difference. At CAMPA, we employ discipline, genuine love for children and families, and a rigorous curriculum coupled with high expectations.

Rigorous High School Curriculum

CAMPA has already introduced the high school curricula to our middle school students, while pairing a math-focused academic program with wellness and personal awareness. Students will be able to graduate with a minimum of six Regents credits (Algebra and Geometry, Living Environment, Chemistry, Global History and Geography, United States History and Government). The goal is to prepare students in a holistic manner equipping them with the skills necessary to thrive in high school, college and beyond. CAMPA upholds a key principle that traditionally unsuccessful and underserved students can learn at high levels and experience academic and personal success.

Our three core components:

- The promulgation of high standards
- The implementation of rigorous college-preparatory curriculum
- The integrated focus on the social/emotional needs of students within the curriculum
