CREATIVITY. INNOVATION. PASSION.
WELCOME TO THE 2019/20 VISUAL AND PERFORMING ARTS SEASON presented by the nationally award winning - The School of Arts and Enterprise. This powerful season champions three of the key core values of our institution’s mission - Creativity, Innovation, Passion.

This year marks a dynamic new chapter for The SAE and continues on the undeniable artistic renaissance The SAE has been forging over the last six years. It is my privilege to welcome Mr. Jon Cundry to lead our organization as our new Executive Director and my pleasure to introduce my long time colleague and friend, Mr. Johnny Anderson, as The SAE’s first principal in our school’s history. We are also beyond excited to begin our first official year as an Arts School Network National Exemplary School. The powerful and uniquely diverse offerings held in these pages, and the leadership our new school leaders bring to our institution, are the very example of what makes The SAE a school unlike any other - and one that is truly exemplary.

From the continued growth and nuanced variety showcased in our professional art gallery, The Gallery at The Downtown Center, to our newly forged Futures Series highlighting the best of our up and coming talent, to The SAE’s nationally award winning Dance Company embarking across the nation, to welcoming direct from Broadway the acclaimed, chart topping jazz vocalist Shoshana Bean as part of the expansion of The Master’s at The School of Arts and Enterprise program, to the continued high quality productions our audiences have come to expect from us - this season is the largest and most important The SAE has ever produced. The 2019/20 Visual and Performing Arts Season at The SAE is one of the strongest and most diverse seasons of its kind anywhere in the nation. We are thrilled to continue our performance residency at the historic Covina Center for the Performing Arts, a venue that has become a second home to us over the last four years. Additionally, The SAE is privileged to establish a greater footprint in the Pomona Arts Colony with the launching of two dynamic new local partnerships. The School of Arts and Enterprise presents at The Fox Theatre and SAE Stage at Humanity will allow The SAE to activate the Pomona Arts Colony with the type of talent that has elevated The SAE to the national stage.

This season continues to uplift our commitment to accessible arts education with a passion to increase the reach of our work to the largest cross section of young artists possible, both inside our doors and outside of our walls. With an emphasis on our community wide “Arts For All” model - this season marks the return of our acclaimed Free Theatre for Young Audiences program, with a revival of our dynamic production of The Miracle Worker. With this production, The SAE will provide over 1,700 free theatre tickets to area schools and local youth to attend, for many of them, their first live performance ever - and share in this timeless story of inclusion and hope. The fall and winter will see the launch of our new community children’s theatre program - specifically designed for local youth who don’t currently attend The SAE - Stars On Stage at The School of Arts and Enterprise.

At The School of Arts and Enterprise we believe that an arts education is a fundamental human right. We take great pride in offering our students the best platforms to share their talents, and are driven by ensuring sustained excellence in those opportunities. The SAE is in the business of student achievement, and all of us are committed to ensuring the best academic and artistic experiences possible for our school community. Through our nationally recognized faculty, phenomenal young artists and your support - these pages hold the magic that is The School of Arts and Enterprise.

With My Best -
