Good Morning,

Today you will receive a letter from your child's principal. In it you will notice that the District is moving to the next phase of our remote learning preparedness plan. Materials, resources, and in some cases, district devices are being sent home. Please keep these items in a safe place. You will be asked to use them in the event that we need to enact our remote learning plan.

At this time we have no presumed positive or positive cases of COVID-19; however, please continue to check your preferred method of receiving district communications as information is being updated rapidly. Please read the letter from your principal as it will have more specific information. Should you have questions, needs, or concerns, please contact your school principal. Please know, we have many resources ready to support you and our students -your children - should we need to enact the remote learning plan.

Information is evolving quickly. I am meeting this morning with Monmouth County officials from both the Department of Education and Department of Health. We will continue to keep our community updated as this situation remains fluid. Again, we understand the severity of this health concern and are following all guidance from State and County level agencies.

While right now there is much uncertainty and anxiety surrounding COVID-19, take comfort in the fact that we are extremely confident in our amazing staff and their ability to educate your children and support you even in these difficult circumstances.

Be Well,

Joseph Isola
Superintendent of Schools
