Pre-Reading Questions

1. What kind of festivals have you been to?
2. What is a famous festival in your country?
3. What comes to your mind when you think of Spain?

People are throwing tomatoes at one another. It looks like a fight, but everyone is laughing. What is going on?

You can see this exciting scene during La Tomatina, a tomato fight festival in Buñol, Spain. This festival is held every year on the last Wednesday of August. Back in the 1940s, some friends got in a fight on the streets. They took fruit from a nearby food stand and threw it at one another. Passers-by joined in their fight. Everyone had so much fun that it became a yearly festival.

On the morning of the festival, people begin to gather at the town’s main plaza. At 11 o’clock, tons of tomatoes arrive and are poured out onto the crowd. Tomatoes start flying everywhere and soon everything is covered in red tomato juice. People shout and have great fun. Two hours later, the fight ends and everyone helps to clean up. In a few hours, the streets are clean again... until next year!
