For more information about Try-It Truck, I've included details below:

The Try It Truck is BADM's engineering-lab-on-wheels, and an exciting way to share our engaging STEM programming. Bring the Try It Truck to your school, library, or community organization to provide hands-on early engineering experiences to young learners. Try It Truck programming engages children in grades kindergarten through fifth grade with BADM's engineering design process of "Think, Make, Try." which they'll use to solve creative challenges and test out new ideas. Try It Truck programming also introduces students to high- and low-tech tools, and encourages them to take risks. Want more information? Visit their website here.
