The Importance of Journalism

By Zachary Wargo

For most people, we all need a way to tell people how we really feel or what we are thinking in the moment. Journalism is very important for many reasons, thanks to the generation we live in that includes plenty of technology.

The aspect that makes journalism unique is that it makes us tell our side of the story and that we can get other people's perspectives with interviews and tell the community what is going on within our city and school. While journalism is different than essay writing, we actually get to decide what to write on, which for myself, I enjoy the most.

Journalism is one of the most important assets we had then, and we still have it today. Thanks to journalism, we know what is going on in the news that involves politics, sports, weather, scandals, and editorials where other people can write their opinions on certain topics.

I thoroughly enjoy sports journalism the most since you can tell the story through your own eyes, and get interviews with athletes that experience the action first hand. Sports journalism is what I look forward to writing about each week, it's very important to get stories out weekly so students like you can know what is going on with the sports around Gallup High. I look forward to reporting basketball games once the season gets underway in early December.

Today we need all types of journalism in our world, which includes knowing what is going on in society. It's important than ever to know what is going on in our country as most of us are growing older and have to pay more attention to the news. For example, years ago, the OJ Simpson trial intrigued people. Society reacted, and people were engrossed in the details of the trial. Getting the facts correct and a different perspective on stories helps the audience realize how important a situation is.

Finally, it's my honor each week to be a sports reporter for Gallup high and a writer for the school. I look forward to publishing each week as I enjoy journalism as it's important for the students and the teachers to know what is going on around the school, as well as our community.
