Do you ever wonder about a characters’ backstory while watching a show or reading a book? Sometimes you may know it, sometimes you may be left wondering, but either way, in order to move forward with a story or portray a character in acting, you need to know those important character details. Those details help you to portray the characters’ actions in a specific way and help you to identify why certain decisions are made. For instance, a 65 year old man who has worked 3 jobs at a time for his entire life, raised 7 children on his own, and drives an old pick-up truck may walk to and from a location very differently than a 65 year old man who was born into money, has no children, works out every day and drives a sports car. Details and character’s point of view matter!

Complete the following worksheet on a SEPARATE sheet while thinking of a particular favorite character. Make sure you

Part 1: ANSWER the QUESTIONS in COMPLETE SENTENCES from the CHARACTER’S POINT OF VIEW!!!

Part 2: Draw & take a picture and upload (if you want) to REMIND @3hhfeg to 81010 or GC, or take a picture from the tv or book and upload (if you want) to REMIND or GC or describe what your character visually looks likes in a few sentences. Share this as part 2 in your document.

Part 3: Tell me 1: Why did you choose this character? 2: Do you relate to this character? Why or why not? 3: Tell me the plot of the story the character came from.
