

CPIH Treatment, Support, & Rehabilitative Services “Why Does Mental Health Matter in Schools”

Children and youth with mental health challenges sometimes experience difficulty at school for a variety of reasons. CPIH receives frequent calls from parents whose kids are struggling to be successful or sometimes not even being allowed to stay at school due to un-addressed mental health needs. Accessing the services that children and youth need to help them better manage and support their mental health needs at school can be quite challenging. CPIH is here to help!

Trauma Kids Face In Our Community
Poverty Mental Illness Homelessness Sexual Abuse Emotional Abuse	Grief/Loss Physical Abuse Addiction / Substance Abuse Domestic Violence Homicide / Suicide

These are only a few examples of the trauma youth and children face in our community. CPIH would like to be a support to families, students and the schools. Why does mental health matter in schools? Addressing mental health needs in school is critically important because 1 in 5 children and youth have a diagnosable emotional, behavioral or mental health disorder and 1 in 10 young people have a mental health challenge that is severe enough to impair how they function at home, school or in our community. Early Intervention strategies work. They can improve resilience and the ability to succeed in school & life.
