Here is a shape poem.

The Fir Tree is Standing proud In The wild, wintry wood. Its branches heavily laden with The soft, white, freshly fallen snow. Its Brave deep-green needles blunted by icicles That add their own sharp, crisp burden To Carry.

Try writing your own tree shape poem here. It can be about any type of tree you wish. You can use some of the words from the fir-tree poem, but try to think of some of your own as well.
Writing a shape poem

Here is a shape poem.

The Fir Tree is Standing proud In The wild, wintry wood. Its branches heavily laden with The soft, white, freshly fallen snow. Its Brave deep-green needles blunted by icicles That add their own sharp, crisp burden To Carry.

Try writing your own tree shape poem here. It can be about any type of tree you wish. You can use some of the words from the fir-tree poem, but try to think of some of your own as well.

………………

………………

………………

………………

Try to encourage your child to produce an original shape poem. It might help to write about a tree your child is familiar with. Talk about the tree together. If your child has difficulties, suggest that he or she rewrite the featured poem in his or her own words.