NHS Girls attend BSU's SheTech Day

Seven Nampa High School girls participated with hundreds of other high school girls on Tuesday, May 15, for a day of innovation, technology, and creativity at Boise State University's SheTech Explorer Day. SheTech Explorer Day is a hands-on tech conference for high school girls in grades 9-12. This day-long event will include hands-on workshops in science, technology, engineering, and math – (STEM). The ultimate goal is to expose girls to technology in a fun atmosphere as well as meet STEM role models to learn more about opportunities in those fields. Girls who attend will have access to internships, receive a SheTech certificate, receive pathway information, and become part of a community to help girls have opportunities in STEM.

The NHS girls who attended included Falicity Boman, Adonna Dixon, Lola Macielewicz, Nereida Aquino, Gardenia Hernandez, Kaliesha Grant, and Jocelin Pedraza.
