

ATC Instructional Materials Policy

ATC 402

The Academy for Technology and the Classics (ATC) determines its own annual budgetary allocations for instructional materials. In addition to state approved materials, ATC uses a variety of curriculum materials, including on-line and other software materials. In all instances, every ATC student has access to all required instructional materials for each class that conform to curriculum requirements. These materials are available in sufficient number to allow every student to take instructional materials home, should this be required.
