

A big day for books

SUBMITTED PHOTO Addison Independent

Pictured is Mrs. Bonilla's 3rd grade class at Lincoln School, which recently welcomed the Addison-based Domtar Corporation to the classroom. The company brought books and goodie bags for each of the students, proudly shown here. Pictured in the back row are (from left): Domtar Corp. reps Karen Franch, Mike Gibson, Beverly Simek and Isabel Espinoza. Far right is Carolina Bonilla. More photos inside.

The Independent - Thursday, March 21, 2019 • 9A

Lincoln third graders receive books from Domtar Corp.

Representatives from Domtar Corporation visited Carolina Bonilla's 3rd grade classroom at Lincoln School on Wednesday, March 13, bringing surprises for her students. The visitors presented each student with two books and a goodie bag, to the children's delight.

Domtar procured the book through a partnership with FirstBook, an organization that works with leading businesses, nonprofits and individuals to promote equal access to quality education for kids in need.

An international paper company with a converting center located in Addison, Domtar Corp. has supported District 4 a great deal in recent years.

The company has donated materials and manpower, having employees volunteer their time to work on building projects such as office painting.

SUBMITTED PHOTOS Addison Independent

Pictured above are students in Mrs. Bonilla's 3rd grade class at Lincoln School checking out all of the books that were presented by the Domtar Corporation, a company located in Addison. Each student received two books and a goodie bag.

Left: The representatives from the Domtar Corporation gave each student a goodie bag when they visited Mrs. Bonilla's 3rd grade class at Lincoln last week.

