Teacher's Corner

Welcome back students and parents. We are in the home stretch here at Kemp Intermediate with STAAR test, field trips, field day, picnic days all coming faster than we realize, and then BAM we are out for summer. There isn't much left to be said that hasn't already been said, but I will try. I recently heard a speaker talking about choices. We don't realize it but we make thousands of choice each day and they ultimately make up the person we are. This is true for all of our students as well. By the time they arrive at school they have made several small choices already and these choices have set their day in motion.

Why are small choices so important? I mean a small decision isn't that big of a deal right? Well I am sure that is what the makers of the Titanic thought as well. While making what was the grandest ship of the times they made a small choice to use lesser materials. It is said that they couldn't get the Best, Best iron for the rivets (what holds the ship together). Instead they used one step down on the supply chart and got the Best iron. This decision lead to a huge disaster and when the Titanic hit an iceberg the ship just tore to shreds and 1500 people lost their life.

Many times we don't realize that small choices matter at all but they can be the ones that sink you ship. The simple decision not to use your strategies on a test, or to talk while instructions are being given. These small decisions that you make can make the difference in being successful or being frustrated because you didn't do as well as you could have. Make all your small choices with you goal in mind. What choice will get you to the finish line.

Trying hard to make smart CHOICES,
Mr. Sullivan
