Chess requires both cognitive abilities (attention, perception, information processing, memory, and problem solving) and non-cognitive skills (patience, discipline, self-control and social skills). Strengthening these skill sets through chess may prove beneficial for children’s intellectual development off the chessboard. We promise to deliver the following:

- A fun and encouraging environment
- Structured curriculum
- Emphasis on the sportsmanship and chess etiquette
- A supportive system for students to reach their best levels (accelerated chess program)

We look forward to having fun with your child(ren) learning this timeless game!
