

Pro violinist visits Indian Trail

Violinist Diana Brodick visited six orchestra classes at Indian Trail Junior High School on Wednesday, Oct. 10 to work with violin and viola students on technique. Brodick talked to the students about rhythm, vibrato, and Baroque style of music and explained the difference in the bowing technique when performing in that style. Brodick has taught private lessons for violins and violas in Lombard for many years, and continues to play professionally in many orchestras in the Chicagoland area. She will return to Addison School District 4 in January to continue working with the junior high students.

SUBMITTED PHOTOS Addison Independent

Violinist Diana Brodick recently visited the orchestra classes at Indian Trail Junior High to share advanced techniques with the violin and viola students there.

The strings section of the Indian Trail Junior High School band perform under the direction of professional violinist Diana Brodick, who visited the school to offer lessons in rhythm, vibrato, bowing, Baroque-style music, and other lessons.