

SUBMITTED PHOTO Addison Independent

Pictured here from left, supply drive coordinators Carole Bensen and Pat Bugielski present Lincoln School Principal Lina Guio with overflowing bags filled with folders, backpacks, markers, glue, crayons, and more. This year's collection even included a brand new pair of shoes.

'Women of Peace' gather school supplies for students

For the 11th year in a row, the Women of Peace group at Prince of Peace Lutheran Church organized a school supply collection this summer to benefit children in the Addison community. Pictured here from left, supply drive coordinators

Carole Bensen and Pat Bugielski, who served as supply drive coordinators, visited Lincoln School to present Principal Lina Guio with bags of supplies. They collected bags filled with folders, backpacks, markers, glue, crayons, and more. This year's collection even included a brand new pair of shoes.

District 4 students will also benefit from a school supply drive that was coordinated at SWD, Inc., by HR Coordinator Janine Szerszen. This is the second year that SWD's employees have pitched in to donate more than 400 items that were distributed to five ASD4 schools.

Addison students are now ensured of starting the new school year with the tools they need to be successful," said Guio. "They are very fortunate to have the support of these community members and are grateful for their generosity."