Dear fabulous French students!

Vous êtes tous magnifiques!

I hope you are well and that you are able to sleep in late every morning. I’m giving you a short activity to do each day to keep your French skills up. As you know you can always do any of the older activities we always do like in Gimkit, Conjuguemos and Quizlet. Right now teachers have been asked to not give out assignments through Google Classroom or that require being online.

So I’m giving a project. You will create a diorama or a floor plan of a house and label it. Each day over the next 5 days you have something to do. If you want to do it all at once you can. I have included several additional vocabulary sheets so you can add items to your diorama or floor plan if you want to. You can make it very detailed if you like. If you want to look words up in WordReference to really add a lot of labels you can do that. I have attached a rubric and you will turn this in when we get back to school.

Additionally there is a reading about a zombie named Corneilus. Read the left side of the page first then read the right side. After that do the questions about the reading next. Do your best to work without looking things up on the computer. Use a highlighter to identify words that are new.

I hope you like the story and the diorama/floor plan project. Have a great week. I miss each one of you already!

Ta prof,

Madame Gage
