2019 Hall of Fame class announced; 20 individuals and the first Legacy group will be inducted on April 28, 2019

September 5, 2018

GRANADA HILLS, Calif. –

The CIF LA City Section has announced its Hall of Fame class of 2019. This is the fifth class to be inducted since its inception in 2011. Previous classes included 2013, 2015 and 2017.

This elite group of individuals includes two of our own media members: Eric Sondheimer of the Los Angeles Times and Randy Rosenbloom, the golden voice of many playoff and championship broadcasts for our Section.

Attached is the list of the inductees that represent many of the greatest athletes, coaches, and contributors in the rich history of our Section. Former professionals from the MLB, NFL, NBA, and the WNBA will be honored as well as legendary college coaches and several Olympians.

Names such as Don Buford, Willie Crawford, Anthony Davis, Marv Dunphy, Vince Ferragamo, Lucious Harris, Carolyn House Helmuth, Freeman McNeil, Loree Moore, John Smith and Jim Tunney highlight this exciting event.

Additionally, we will be inducting our first-ever “Legacy” group of individuals who left behind an indelible mark prior to their passing.

The 2019 induction ceremony will be held on Sunday, April 28, 2019, at the Sportsmen’s Lodge Events Center in Studio City.

Contact: Dick Dornan, Sports Information Director; ddornan@cif-la.org 818-767-0800