

The Principal's Pen
Dr. Anthony F. Merante

Your Message Here

Over this year, I have received many kind words about the articles written in the principal's pen. Maybe that is because the topics are from my own mistakes, what I have learned from working with others, and of course always knowing that God guides us all. One of my favorites was from a mom who told me that after reading the article on non-negotiables and discussing it with her child that her daughter told her that the strong message she learned is to "Never lick my brother's head!"

In this world of technology, where we have email and twitter and face book and texting and tweeting I ask you, when was the last time you wrote a letter? Not a card from Hallmark, a letter. So, here you go mom and dad, aunts and uncles, grandparents, and anyone else reading these articles. In the space below, or on another sheet of paper, write a child a letter. Tell them something you have been meaning to tell them or reinforce something they know. Use this opportunity to put your own message here.