SHOWCASE “BONK’S CLASSES”

The Inquiry Project

Students were given the opportunity to present any topic of their choice, while the audience observed and, ultimately, decided which group they wanted to join. Research ensued and primary sources, articles, and books were brought in to support their topic. Groups then crafted an essential question to drive them. After much analysis and discussion, groups collaborated on an answer. Finally, a visual project was designed to enhance their major findings. It was a project of choice, creativity, and collaboration.
