Child Nutrition Team earns “Best of the Bunch” award

The COCISD Child Nutrition Department has been awarded a “Best of the Bunch” award for its achievement in the Texas Department of Agriculture’s (TDA) 2017 Local Products Challenge.

This annual program encourages school nutrition teams to incorporate more Texas products into meals and teach children about healthy lifestyles and Texas agriculture.

Our CN team earned the award by meeting the highest standards of the challenge.

“Schools in the Local Products Challenge demonstrate a real commitment to combining nutrition education with support for their local economies and Texas’ bountiful agriculture industry,” said Texas Agriculture Commissioner Sid Miller. “

CN Director Dawn Smith said the challenge was fun and they will continue to source local products.

Locally sourced food provides a lesson in healthy eating and the bounty of Texas agriculture.

Elementary students enjoy Makerspace library time

James Street and Coldspring Intermediate students have been enjoying stretching their creative, constructive imagination muscles in the JSE/CIS library at Makerspace time.

Students are encouraged to work together using a variety of materials to build unique structures. What a great way to create!
