

RECOGNITION OF RELIGIOUS BELIEFS AND CUSTOMS

The following options are available to students whose religious beliefs are in conflict with classroom subject matter:

1. Students may be excused from class without penalty and provided with an alternate opportunity when the offending material is being taught;
2. Students may attend class but may be excused without penalty from taking an examination on the offending material; or
3. Students may attend class and be tested in the normal way, after privately or publicly voicing an objection.
4. Students may complete and be assessed on alternative assignments.
