ROWLETT MIDDLE ACADEMY CELEBRATES NATIONAL ARTS IN EDUCATION WEEK

Bradenton, FL – The students and staff at Rowlett Middle Academy will host a “Reverse Parade” at 7:45AM in the school car rider loop on Thursday, September 12th. This idea was conceived in order to celebrate National Arts in Education Week, which runs September 8-14, 2019. The event will feature students from the various arts programs at Rowlett Middle Academy, which include Band, Chorus, Dance, Drama, and Orchestra. In addition to these standard offerings, Rowlett Middle is proud to offer more specialized programs such as Film, Musical Theater, Jazz Ensemble and more!

Band Director and Fine Arts Team Leader, Mrs. Victoria Helton believes that, “Arts education, including dance, music, theatre, media arts, and visual arts, is an essential element of a complete and balanced education for all students.” She noted that the extensive offerings at RMA “provide a safe place [for students] to display their creativity and foster their talents into amazing performance skills.”

National Arts in Education Week has been celebrated since 2010. According to the National Arts in Education Association website, “The celebration is designated to bring attention to this cause for elected officials and educational decision makers across the country and to support equitable access to the arts for all students.” Helton is excited to be participating in the event because, “Arts education enriches their [students] and is looking forward to “celebrating National Arts in Education Week by displaying all the programs outside for our parents and community members!”
