Happy last week of 7th grade! It feels so strange to say that since we have not been together for such a long time. This week’s assignment is simple. Write a letter to next year’s 7th grade science class.

Tell them:

- What you learned in science this year
- What they should expect in 7th grade science class
- Which lab(s) they should look forward to
- The best thing about 7th grade science!

Dear Almost Former 7th Graders,

Don’t rush through this. Take some time to really think of the memories that you made and the knowledge that you’ve gained. This could be an assignment you finish in 5 minutes and never think about again or, it could be something that you, your teacher, and the future 7th grade students treasure as a memory of an awesome year. I wish we could be together as we write these, but just know that I cannot wait to read them and think of the times we were lucky enough to share! Thank you for a wonderful year.

Love,

Mrs. McGillen, Mrs. Kline, and Dr. Dennis

Dear Future 7th Grade Scientists,
