

Cougar Families,

I hope we are all staying safe and warm during these frigid temperatures. Please keep a close eye on the news for any school closures. As of now, school will be in session tomorrow. That said, make sure our scholars are dressed appropriately for the weather, students should not have any exposed skin. Huge thank you to all of our scholars and volunteers last week who supported the Special Olympics Basketball Trials. Clissold School has and continues to be the largest supporting school and we could not be prouder of our school community for all of their efforts!

Here are a few reminders and updates:

Thank you, PTA volunteers, for another successful fun lunch!

Urban Gateways: We are very excited for the performance of "Amazing Africa" for our Pre-K - 3rd Grade students tomorrow!

Traffic: The conditions outside will only make it more challenging during drop off and dismissal. Please be patient and courteous, do not forget to use the kiss-n-go near the playground. No cars should be parking in the bus parking spaces.

Parking Lots: The school parking lots are for school staff only. Do not park in lots or block the entrances. School Uniform: Scholars should be dressed in school uniform daily unless otherwise instructed. Also, please remember layering options should be solid colored; maroon, navy, white or black.
