

Summer Reading 2019

Choose TWO of the following titles and read to completion. As you read, keep a Reading Log / Journal with a ten entries per title. So, divide the novel into 10 even sections and write an entry after each and every section. For example, The Lost Symbol, including Epilogue, has 134 chapters. So you should make a journal entry every 13-14 chapters.

Each journal entry should include one paragraph of summary AND 1 paragraph of reaction/analysis. Analysis requires you to think independently. Include opinions, reactions, and/or criticism of characters and their choices, of the author and his/her development of the plot. Include predictions. Make comparisons to other works of art: novels, movies, TV shows, or even history. Continually search for themes, which are the commentaries that the authors hide within their fiction. What are the authors trying to teach us? What do they have to say about human nature, or society, or politics? Be sure to include at least one citation (quote) from the text in each response (include page number).

On the first day of school, you are expected to submit a typed copy of your 2-novel reading log. You should expect an assessment on the first or second day of school.

I will check my e-mail once or twice a week over the summer. If you have questions, you may contact me at: sthamann@readingschools.org.

Titles:

The Lost Symbol by Dan Brown

Frankenstein by Mary Shelley

Jurassic Park by Michael Crichton

The Strange Case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde by Robert Louis Stevenson

- I recommend that you investigate each novel before you make your choices. Do not simply count pages.
- I recommend that you actually read. Major differences exist between novels and movies, and I am well aware of all of them. Do not attempt to take short cuts
- I recommend that you do your own work. Those who attempt to plagiarize have not fared well. A '0' on this assignment results in a probable 'F' for the 1st quarter.

FYI: We will be incorporating the summer reading into every unit throughout the year. Questions regarding the summer reading will appear on the semester exam as well as the final exam. We do not simply discard literature; we read it, study it, know it, and continue to use it for life (or at least throughout senior year).
