

San Benito community approves $40 million bond proposal

San Benito voters have approved a $40 million bond proposal that will allow San Benito CISD to build a state-of-the-art performing arts center, an aquatics center, and an indoor multipurpose athletic facility.

Administrators and trustees extend their most sincere appreciation to the voters of this community for embracing the district's vision, goals, and plans. "Recognizing the faith placed in district leaders by our community, we humbly accept the responsibility to continue moving San Benito CISD toward becoming the 'GOLD STANDARD' in all areas of public education," explains Superintendent of Schools Dr. Nate Carman.

"I would like to acknowledge the efforts of bond committee members, and thank them for their guidance and commitment throughout the entire process," added Carman.

During previously held Town Hall Meetings, the public provided their input on the proposed projects. Various presentations were also held throughout the district and community, informing voters on the projects and estimated costs associated with these projects. The district extends a word of appreciation to those community members who participated in these meetings.

The San Benito CISD Board of Trustees and district administrators will begin planning the next steps for these projects now that voters have given us the green light.
