Fall Sports Wrap Up

Last Week in Tennis

was the president of the Muslim Students Association at NYU, when he immediately became a spokesperson for his faith, while he was still negotiating his own relationship with Israel. In a presentation that was peppered with humor, Haroon spoke about four personal stories of faith, discovering his core identity, and failure and recovery.

IFYC

On Sunday, several members of IFYC headed to Waukegan for the Ahmadiyya Muslim Community's Religious Founders' Day. Rabbi Silver joined a panel with leaders of the Ahmadiyya, Sikh, and Catholic faiths, speaking about the role of religion to combat racism. In addition to hearing the presentations, participants had the opportunity to dialogue with people from multiple faiths. We look forward to many more opportunities to engage with our new partners and friends.

Last week was a bittersweet week for the girls tennis team. On Monday, the team had senior night and honored seniors Hannah Kelly, Bella Lavarre, and Emma Mati. Hannah thanked her coach for her support on and off the court. Bella Lavarre said tennis season is one of her favorite times of the year, and she will miss the girls of the RZJHS tennis team. Nevertheless, the team ended its season with a bang. We played Beacon Academy for the second time this season, and every court won their matches. After a shaky start, senior Hannah Kelly won her match 8-5, and Bella LaVarre and Carly Winick won their last doubles match 8-3. As the temperature dropped and we were finishing up, Eden Kahn and JJ Lippman won in a hard fought tie break, with both teams and parents watching. "Oh, the pressure...! But they pulled it off." Coach Finfer reminisces, "What a season it's been! We have had some great wins and some hard losses. No matter what the score was, we always had fun and we always had food. Oh, how I will miss all these girls and their parents. Until next year, go RZJHS girls tennis team!"

A Taste of Torah: Bereshit

Junior Ethan Harris writes, "It is these concepts of infinite worth, equality, and dignity that are the "timeless truths" from Genesis chapter 1. These ideas not only hold meaning in a Biblical and religious context, but can have an immense consequence on our lives in a modern, secular setting. And that is the beauty of this truth. It does not matter if you believe in God, Creation, or any part of the Torah; they hold meaning regardless. For so many religious teachings, they lose essentially all significance without the belief a Higher Power to back them up. But in case of these specific truths, one can act according to them simply because of the peace and harmony that they have the power to create amongst humanity. READ MORE>>
